Our Materials

BRONZE

The preferred metal for sculptures because of its ability to expand just before it sets. This allows for the most intricate details to be brought to life.

MARBLE

Sculptors like marble because, while it's relatively soft and easy to work when first quarried, it becomes extremely hard and dense with age. Marble is available in a variety of shades and patterns.

STAINLESS STEEL

Stainless steel is a great choice for sculptors because of its strength and durability. A stainless sculpture can stand the test of time in almost any element. It can have a rough finish if that's what you prefer, or a cleaner, more polished finish.

CORTEN STEEL

An architectural steel that is designed to rust. It contains copper that ensures its core will not deteriorate and it will last a long time. The patina that forms on the outside makes it stronger and adds to its aesthetic charm.
