THUNDERBIRD collection

The Thunderbird is believed to rule the weather creating rain, wind, hail and snow and is important for agriculture and crops in a desert land. When the thunderbird is angry, it flashes lightning from its eyes and creates thunder with its massive wings.

This beaded necklace features a thunderbird pendant hand-carved by an indigenous Pueblo artisan from reconstituted turquoise.

Necklace design hand-strung in Australia by a Reiki Master using ethically sourced fair-trade African Turquoise heishi beads and Hematite heishi Beads.

On each side of the pendant, Karen Hill Tribe Fine Silver beads are featured and finished with a Sterling Silver Clasp.
