ETHICAL PRODUCTS FOR A SUSTAINABLE FUTURE

HEMP FABRICS

Hemp linen fabric is woven from the fibres of the hemp plant, a highly sustainable crop that also creates many byproducts we are familiar with like hemp seed oil and hemp seeds. The hemp fibres are used to create yarn which is then woven into fabric. Hemp crops are naturally very resilient and use far less water and pesticides than other crops such as the cotton plant.

To get the best quality hemp fibres, it's important that it is grown in colder climates due to the ideal weather. Australia and New Zealand are considered to have the highest quality hemp plants, although there is also hemp grown in other countries such as India, China and other countries in South East Asia.

The hemp is dyed and woven into fabric meterage for making products. For 'natural' coloured linen and fabrics, the yarn is left un-dyed. The yarn used for coloured hemp linens and fabrics can be dyed at this point and colours and textures are added at this point. To create the stunning white and snow colours in our range, we use a method of whitening with hydrogen peroxide which is not harmful to the skin.

BENEFITS OF HEMP FABRICS

Aside from the environmental benefits that the production of hemp linen supports, there are many benefits to using hemp linen in the home to sleep on. Hemp linen is very comfortable in warm climates: it is naturally highly absorbent, meaning it can absorb a high percentage of its own weight in water without feeling wet. It is also highly breathable given the hollow core of the and will be temperate to sleep in, for both hot and cool sleepers.

Hemp linen is also considered to be a very long lasting fabric, although the length of its life will depend on a number of factors like the weight of the linen and also the way it is used and cared for.

A great choice for those conscious of the environmental impact of their purchases, most pure hemp linen bedding is simply designed so won't date, can be used for years, and also is produced much more efficiently than other fabrics such as cotton, with very little water and pesticides.

WHY HEMP BED LINEN?

Hemp bed linen is beautifully soft from day one and continues to soften with time to ensure that your daily ritual of sleep is a peaceful and relaxing time of the day. Our two ranges, our 100% Pure hemp range and our hemp and organic cotton blend linen sheets, quilt covers and pillowcases are made in Australia and showcase the natural flecks and texture of hemp..

BENEFITS OF HEMP BED LINEN

Breathable - Hemp fabric breathes very well in addition to being a natural insulator due to its hollow core fibre, a characteristic hemp shares with wool without the scratch.

Recyclable - Hemp fabric can be used for papermaking or can be allowed to degrade naturally, as it leaves no toxic residue.

Anti-bacterial and allergy friendly - As hemp is grown and processed without the use of toxic chemicals, there are no irritants for asthma or allergy sufferers. Fabrics are washed at 40°C and softened with enzymes.

Durable - Hemp fabric is more absorbent and lasts much longer than cotton sheets. Many of our customers still have their sheets purchased over 15 years ago!

Environmentally sustainable - Hemp has moderate water requirements and requires little or no herbicides, pesticides or fungicides.

HEMP CURTAINS & SHOWER CURTAINS

When we're at home, we want to feel safe and warm. The addition of hemp linen curtains not only creates a warming ambiance, but introduces a level of organic elegance to your space. Handmade in Australia, hemp linen curtains and shower curtains are non toxic, chemical free and safe for allergy sufferers.

Our hemp shower curtain has a natural resistance to mildew and bacteria and can be machine washed to clean any grime buildup. After machine-washing simply hang the curtain up to dry in the sun, any wrinkles will disappear during showering.

We've also had the opportunity to create curtains for commercial clients and many beautiful stores around Australia, like Incu, AJE and Zimmermann showcase our hemp curtains in their changerooms.
